Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Protection of Cultural Resources Against the Hazards of War: A Preliminary Handbook The Committee on Conservation of Cultural Resources was established by the National Resources Planning Board in March 1941 to collect and disseminate information and promote measures for the protection of books, manuscripts, records, works of art, museum objects, historic buildings, scientific and scholarly apparatus, and other cultural resources against the hazards of war and to formulate long-range plans for the conservation and broadest and wisest use of cultural resources. It has also undertaken the specific function of preparing plans for the protection of materials of cultural, scientific, or historic importance in the possession of agencies of the Federal Government. In its relations with State, local, and private custodians of cultural materials, the Committee functions principally through State committees on conservation of cultural resources, which have been established in almost every State. The present handbook is based on a preliminary discussion of the conservation of cultural resources in time of war prepared by Richard H. Heindel, formerly Executive Secretary of the Committee on Conservation of Cultural Resources, and distributed for discussion purposes in May 1941. The text was later revised by Robert Bahmer and other members of the staff of The National Archives to take into account the comments made on the preliminary discussion and the changed situation brought about by the outbreak of war. The text has been further edited by Dan Lacy, Secretary of the Committee, and by the Division of Information and Publications of The National Archives. Chapter IV, on the Protection of Buildings, is almost entirely the work of members of the National Park Service of the Department of...
