Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Academic Examinations and Academic Funds Mr Chancellor and Ladies and Gentlemen: No other State gives anything like the amount of money that New York State gives to the upbuilding of secondary schools. Our people give $65,000,000 each year for education and $7,850,000 for the annual maintenance of our 800 schools of secondary grade. But that is not what is now in mind. Reference is now made to the funds distributed by the State government to encourage the scholarship in and the expansion of the high schools and academies. The State began the policy even before she began to appropriate State school moneys for the elementary schools. She has maintained the policy with uniform sagacity and steadily enlarging generosity. The State support of the academic schools is more liberal than the State support of the elementary schools. The schools of approved academic standing receive academic funds in liberal addition to the distributive share which they get as common schools from the State school funds. This is right because they are much more expensive and because the...
