Reviews

This pdf is fantastic. It typically is not going to price too much. You will not truly feel monotony at at any time of your own time (that's what catalogs are for about if you request me).

LONG TERM ECONOMIC GROWTH

RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 62 pages. This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1973 Excerpt: . . . of Economic Advisers (1971). Series A159 and A160 Number of Operating Businesses Series A159 measures the number of business firms in operation as of January 1 of each year (data prior to 1940 are averages of end-of-quarter estimates). The Bureau of Economic Analysis defines a firm as a financially responsible business organization under one management and with an established place of business. A firm may control one or more plants or outlets, but parent corporations and corporate subsidiaries are counted separately. All nonfarm businesses are included, regardless of size, and all self-employed persons with either a place of business or at least one paid employee are included. Professional practices (doctors, lawyers, etc.) are not considered business firms. Series A160 is the total number of business concerns listed in the July issues of the Dun and Bradstreet Reference Book. This book includes manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers, building contractors, and certain types of commercial services. This series is not as broad in coverage as series A159. The types of business not covered are finance, insurance, real estate companies, railroads, terminals, amusements, many types of small service and construction enterprises, professional practices and farmers. Sources: Series A159 is from Business Statistics (1965) and the Survey of Current Business (January 1954), both published by the U. S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of Economic Analysis. Series A160 is from Dun and Bradstreet; data for 1870 to 1952 are taken from Historical Statistics of the United States, Colonial Times to 1957 and for 1953 to date from...
