Anil this is far from being a singular observation. 6th. An habitual disposedness unto, and practice of, religious conversation, is another material branch of the christians duty. I mean, to employ the noble faculty of speech in a manner becoming reason and religion. The mouth of the righteous speaketh wisdom, and his tongue talketh of judgment. The law of God is in his heart. Particularly, we should abstain from hurtful converse; such as reflects upon the honour of the blessed God, or tends to lessen mens regard to him; such as defiles and corrupts the mind; injures the reputation of those that are absent, or provokes and insults thdse that are present; or is merely idle, empty, and vain; in a word, whatsoever is contrary to the laws of charity, religion, or chastity, should be banished from our lips. But then, we must aim at something useful, as well as abstain from every thing hurtful in our conversation. A negative goodness is no more sufficient in this, than in other parts of the christian character; the tongue of man was given him to be employed to his Makers praise, and to be useful and instructive to those around him; and angels themselves have not nobler or more delightful subjects for the employment of it than we: the glorious perfections of God; the amiable Jesus; tlie holy word of God; his wonderful works of nature, providence, and grace; the happiness of the eternal world before...
